

VI.C. Recognising the heroin dealer

While the Nigerian nationals described above as cocaine importers also import and market heroin, they do not hold the same sort of dominance in this area. Street retailers are often East African, coming from Burundi, Tanzania, Kenya, and Ethiopia.

Heroin markets are particularly strong among white youth in Pretoria and Cape Town, but there is a growing black market, and users have shown up for treatment in areas through which the drug is transhipped, such as Mpumalanga.
